

2012 National DPAC FEATURED PHARMACIST

Brigadier General Michael Calhoun

Major General Emmitt R. Titshaw, Jr. the Adjutant General of Florida recently announced the selection of Colonel Michael Calhoun to the position of Brigadier General.

“Colonel Calhoun is a superb leader who is commanding his second brigade-level organization. He is highly deserving of this promotion,” said Major General Titshaw.

General Calhoun's assignments include command of the 856th Quartermaster Battalion (Water); the 53rd Infantry Brigade's Special Troops Battalion; the 211th Regiment, Regional Training Institute (RTI-FL); the Commander, 50th Area Support Group; and he is currently commanding the 83rd Troop Command.

General Calhoun is a 1977 graduate of the Florida A&M University (FAMU) School of Pharmacy, now the College of Pharmacy & Pharmaceutical Sciences, with the Bachelors of Science in Pharmacy degree.

He later received the Master's Degree in Strategic Studies from the U.S. Army War College.

General Calhoun is a recipient of the Bronze Star Medal, Humanitarian Service Medal, Florida Distinguished Service Medal, Alabama Commendation Medal, and the Mississippi State Emergency Medal, as well as the Department of Defense African American History Month Recognition Award for his contributions to the Global War on Terrorism.

General Calhoun is a registered Consultant Pharmacist.

He and his wife Sophia have one son, Evan, currently a student at FAMU.
